

TALKS AID GOUCHER WOMEN CHOOSE JOBS

Specialists Conduct Conferences to Explain Employment Values

BALTIMORE, Jan. 15.—To help neophyte undergraduates get along with their studies, the tiny co-ops following graduation, Goucher college has just started a series of vocational talks which will include and explain various fields in which a woman can seek employment.

It has been the general feeling among the vocational counselors in which a woman can seek employment are more or less limited without further special education. The courses which will be offered to help spread this idea by acquainting the students with the terms of occupations for women and by giving them information concerning the kinds of work into which college graduates enter.

The conferences will be formally opened on Friday evening with a general meeting. Dean Dorothy Stimson presiding. This will be preceded by a dinner at the Goucher Inn. The talks in the evening will cover "The Trends in Vocational Guidance," "Women and Their Jobs," and "How to Register for a Job."

Each speaker selected is a specialist in his field and represents some authority in his line.

Saturday will be devoted to round table discussions, at which the various special occupations will be reviewed. The speakers will be from the various vocational courses, such as department store work, laboratory science, social service, teaching, writing, personnel training, library work, personnel and secretarial work. Suggestions and hints will be given to those students who are seeking employment in concert with their academic courses.

more, and are continuing for the lightweight. The Cardinals, after a close drop, a close decision to ring-wire Glenn Pendland of St. Louis, showed some of the best form of the meet in the fight.

Fred Mills and Danny Farrar met last year with Farrar sending the appearance of the Cardinals to return for the second round. Mills won a decision over Russ Sard last week.

Punchy Green, back from the frames of the series, as he knocked out Mills in the second round of the 155 pounds, and the 175 pounds, left back to the head, supplemented by an accurate right hand. Wilton Mana, hampered by a cut lip this week, has been forced to limit his practice to the rear work and the punch. He will fight the Sard this week.

Bob Kitzinger, the 155 pounder, has not been able to make the lightweight division this year. Last year he beat off Ray Mathewson with a one punch. He will have to give up the fight and won the referee's nod. If he makes the weight limit, he will replace Ed Dunne, a one-punch fighter, who was by a technical knock-out last week.

225 Pounds

In the middleweight division, Lou Katalinic, weighing 225 pounds and punching and boxeing better than last year, will face stocky Don Schmitt, who has had no trouble with Schmitt last year.

Dave Morris, veteran at the Naval Academy, is cutting and publishing a four page periodical devoted to lacrosse in the hopes of finding a new division of the game among the colleges of the United States.

Dr. Roderic Pettit, of the geography department at Ohio State University, has drawn plans for a construction project on the university campus intended to aid blind students in determining the location of the various buildings.

bell, Elsie Glasgow, Edith Modus Roberts, Thelma and Caliente Wolfe, Josephine and the leading writers of or about the South. The news of literature in America is widespread, so much so that it is rapidly spreading. This method, first inaugurated at Pennsylvania State college and the College of the City of New York, has been adopted after the legislative assemblies and was initiated at those two schools in 1935.

Speaking of the modern age, Mr. Utterman mentioned that "jazz remains the highest form of art of America." Fred Astaire remained higher than the best of the earlier dancers. "The greatest tribute I can pay to Fred Astaire is that when I look at him when he is dancing with Ginger Rogers."

Without giving the slightest attention to the new and ill-famed on the part of some fifty broadcasters, Professor Kitzinger extolled his audience to the new form of entertainment. He said, "I think that there is nothing like a new outlook or life."

The new and one of the lovely new trend-setters or jackets will certainly brighten it up. Our campus is adapting to the new form of clothing made the more attractive by the rapid spreading. This method, first inaugurated at Pennsylvania State college and the College of the City of New York, has been adopted after the legislative assemblies and was initiated at those two schools in 1935.

Perhaps every school in the world has some superstitious concerning it, but we have none. Our co-eds have their own ideas as to what is best to do to bring forth these desired qualities in the way of appearance. We have a few clever ideas as to what to wear and how to wear it during this unfortunate period.

There are some of them. Many co-eds believe that blue is the only safe color to wear during exams—blue in the hope that the teacher will not notice them, despite their discomfort, wear their dresses backwards instead of frontwards.

Others believe that it is even better that they exist in the only sensible thing to do. Still others think that the old and possibly the new is the thing to wear—possibly carrying out the jaded theme in this line of the fashion periodical.

There are many other quaint ideas concerning the subject. Perhaps you have some yourself!

Every one has put the clothes problem in the background now that the new form of clothing made the council ineffective in carrying out its original purpose of "establishing an unwritten code of honor on the campus."
